Lent Week 6
14th April
2019

A Community of Missionary
Disciples With Contemplative Hearts

This week I did something I haven't done for some months: I took some proper time off. It was a total revelation. I turned the notifications off on my email accounts, WhatsApp, Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Asana, my text messages and actual phone. I sat for the most part in silence reading two books and reflecting. Making space this week taught me that I need to make more space. It is something I hardly ever write about, I often think that when I write or say something it should be about spirituality, about living in a field, or living a contemplative life, or making space to get away from it all. But, because I am not so good at it myself I can't really talk about it convincingly. I would highly recommend it. It gave me time to reflect on what it means to be a Priest in a changing church.

Being a Parish Priest (PP) is effectively being an administrator, a site manager and then a pastor. The traditional model of being a PP is helping a structure to run well. I could go to the Philippines and be a PP there and once I had got over some cultural difference I could probably slot in quite well. The church has designed a great global system where a PP, wherever you are fits into one big system that runs in more or less the same way wherever you are.

Jesus gave us a mandate to proclaim his message of love and salvation to the world and to follow him. Basically, he calls us to be missionaries and disciples. To coin a contemporary catholic phrase we are called to be 'missionary disciples'. Yet the church 'system' is not set up for this to happen. In my view most dioceses see themselves as the mission. Instead of helping us become missionary disciples most diocese expect us to serve their structures and demands. From personal experience, I think this can be evidenced in the countless meetings that seem to achieve very little and in the way our finances are run. The structure of the church should serve the mission but it seems that the structure has become the mission. It is this self serving structure that the last five popes, including Pope Francis, have been teaching us to over haul.

Each of the Popes since St John XXIII in the 1960's have been calling us to be missionaries but the church continues to be mired in self reflective arguments between left and right, traditional and liberal. These arguments are in my opinion a profligate indulgence, they keep us looking inwards focussed on ourselves rather than looking outwards to those who do not know the message of God's love. Those arguments keep us in a safe and comfortable zone rather than helping us to break out into the unfamiliar and challenging territory of sharing our faith. (PTO)

I feel we can transform St Bon's into something like a missionary hub. Rather than us keeping a parish running because it has always been 'that way', we can orient our structures to inviting others, especially non-believers, to encounter Jesus's love for them. This demands a cultural shift that has been asked for by our Popes for decades but which few parishes seem to have been able to achieve. We have come a long way over the last few years and have made great steps on that journey, now we have to turn that start into concrete action of bringing the message of God's love to the people who need to hear it.

YEAR OF PRAYER

As we prepare to journey into the diocesan Year of Prayer, Fr Christopher from the Diocese's Department for Adult Education and Evangelisation shares these reflections with us.

PASSION SUNDAY

All of us have probably experienced roller coaster days which can cause us to go from a state of great joy into one of despair. As we recall the events of Jesus entering Jerusalem and all that followed on from that euphoric entry, we are invited into the suffering and death of Jesus, to focus on an experience which Jesus freely participated in. This does not mean that it was easy. Suffering by its very nature is painful, whether it be emotional, psychological or physical. One week on from today we will celebrate the resurrection of Jesus but during the week ahead we remember that Jesus continues to suffer in his body, that is in the people who are suffering today, victims of abuse, of injustice, of betrayal and of persecution. As we reflect on this let us pray for these victims that, they too, will rise with the Lord.

SAINT OF THE WEEK

St. Catherine of Siena

St. Catherine of Siena was born during the outbreak of the plague in Siena, Italy on March 25, 1347.

She chose to devote herself to God, against the will of her parents and joined the Sisters of the Penance of St. Dominic where she made her vows.

Catherine of Siena is known for the strong influence she had in the history of the papacy, such as the return of the Pope from Avignon to Rome. She carried out many missions entrusted by the Pope, something quite rare for a woman in the Middle Ages. She is one of the most influential writers in Catholicism, to the point that she is one of only four women to be declared a doctor of the Church.
